to be a success on the front line
of the financial world*

As a military veteran, you've served your country and proven that you have the determination and discipline to succeed. Now through WexTrade Financial, you have the opportunity to develop a real-world skill set that will create career opportunities in trading and other related professions.

The average professional trader makes a great living in a full time day to day endeavour. Committed and experienced professional traders can take trading to the next level of success which can lead to unlimited upside potential.

With WexTrade Financial's training programs, you will learn about trading from a former combat veteran who has made the transition to trading and has been a successful trader for more than 10 years. Dr. Todd Hanson, the director of training and education for WexTrade Financial, served in the U.S. Marine Corps, 1st Force Reconnaissance and 1st Air and Naval Gunfire Liaison Company with 0321 and 2531 Military Occupational Specialties. He has extensive experience in information security management and information technology systems engineering and administration and has created numerous popular and successful trading systems that are employed by fund managers, brokerage houses and traders worldwide.

WexTrade Financial offers a comprehensive nine-month curriculum with hands-on classroom instruction by professional traders that teaches you everything you need to know about trading. Unlike other trading programs, WexTrade Financial is the first trading organization to offer scholarships and other financial incentives to military veterans.

We have a full-time financial aid specialist from Veterans Affairs on-hand to assist in your transition and qualification for funds. WexTrade Financial also offers access to professional trading mentors, career placement services, and financial sponsors to help you start your career.

Also, WexTrade Financial offers potential access to funds specifically designed for veterans to trade. If you qualify for these exclusive trading funds, you can earn money from the funds that you trade.

You will also have the unique opportunity to become an approved trader for WexTrust Capital's Diversified Investment Funds.

Depending on your performance, you could potentially be considered for a trading position.
